Introduction to library resources

Using the Library Guides.

Using the Library Guides

Starting at University can sometimes be overwhelming. Library Guides are your go-to place for how to use library resources and how to find information specific to your subject/discipline. Once you discover them they will become a ‘best friend’.

The Library Guides are accessible via the Library Homepage. Access them via the ‘Library Guides’ hyperlink just below the ECU Worldsearch search box.
Using the Library Guides

The Library Guides are grouped by School and specific information types such as the ‘Referencing and EndNote’ Group. This group contains the Referencing Library Guide as mentioned previously.

The Nursing and Midwifery Group is highlighted in red and contains 3 Library Guides specific to the School of Nursing and Midwifery.

The Nursing & Midwifery Library Guides

The main Guide in this group is the Nursing Library Guide. It contains very useful information and links to books, Journals and Databases that you will use throughout your studies. It is highly recommended that you spend time getting to know this Guide.
The NCS1102 page

Within the Nursing Library Guide there is a specific page for your Unit, NCS1102. It contains relevant information and links to books, Journals and Databases and worth remembering.

The Referencing Library Guide

The Referencing Library Guide is an essential Guide. It contains very useful information and links on how to correctly reference your work in the APA 6th style – the style that is commonly used at ECU. If you are new to referencing in this style, be sure to watch the short tutorial video which is accessible from the homepage of the Guide.
Remember there is always someone to talk to

REMEMBER: If you need help at anytime contact the Library on library@ecu.edu.au or ask one of the Library Staff at the front desk of the campus libraries at Joondalup, Mount Lawley and Bunbury.
